- A sketch in the New York Herald of the condition of some of the tenement house districts of New York, not only reveals them in a repulsiveness almost too shocking for belief, but also casts the keenest reproach upon the authorities who permit the maintenance of such nests of disease, filth and peril, in the centre of a great city, where modern civ ilization has presumably attained its highest development. Tall buildings more populous with swarming life than a rabbit warren, are crowded in the interior of the blocks, and are reached only by alleys a few teet wide. What few fireescapes are provided are such only in name, and the calamity ten days ago, in which eleven people were burned to death, is nothing more than an instance of what may happen at any time. The danger of conflagration is vastly increased by the careless habits of the wretched people who inhabit these-qualid abodes, while the cheap and filmsily-built structures always offer food for the flumes. But this contraction SEC. 2. That Section 4, Chapter LXXXVIII, of the General Statues, "of Administration," be stricken out and the following inserted in hea thereof, "when an executor shall die," or when an administrator shall die, either not having fully administered the estate in his hands, it shall be the duty of the Judge of Probate of the county in which letters testing mentary, or of administration were first. mosphere, they breed the germs of pesti lence that are carried far and wide abroad There is scarcely a single sanitary rule but what is conspicuous by not being observed. From every standpoint such a festering and putrid ulcer upon the body of the community can but be looked on with horror and shanner. And yet, as the Herald shows, there is no lack of legislation meant to be remedial. The statute books embrace laws to limit the number of inhabitants of a certain space. of inhabitants of a certain space, to establish sanitary inspection, and to comestablish sanitary inspection, and to compel owners of the property to provide good fire escapes, but official negligence te at the bottom of their non-enforcement. It may be possible that a newspaper exposition of the evil in all its great proportions will prod the authorities up to a discharge of their duties.

The Alexandria obelisk was placed over a pedestal in Central Park, New York, Saturday, between 5,000 and 10,000 people witnessing the operation. Among those present were Secretary of the Navy Goff, Secretary Evarts, members of the Park commission, Collector Merritt, and representatives of the Massonic fraternity. A guard of sailors and marines from the navy yard, headed by the Marine Band, formed a cordon around the monolith. A few minutes after noon Lieut. Commander Gorringe gave the signal, and the pillar was quickly raised from a horizontal to a perpendicular position amid the enthusiasm of the special time of the pedestal. The Tallest Man in the World.

Chang, a Chinese giant, arrived in Chang, a Chinese giant, arrived in New York on an ocean steamer recently, and was immediately pounced upon by the newspaper men. A reporter called at the hotel where the giant lodged, and saw, sitting on an improvised seat of two chairs with her vy boards laid across, a presence which seemed to fill the whole room. Chang is, unquestionably, the largest man in the world. He is gigantic. As he eat there smiling and nodding, his thoroughly Chinese face looked fully as broad as an ordinary man's shoulders, and as long, if not longer than a flourbarrel. His cheek bones bulge out, and are as large as a full-sized orange. He barren. His cheek bones bulge out, and are as large as a full-sized orange. He is thirty-three years old, is the son of a wealthy silk and tea merchant in Pekin, where he was born, is well educated, speaks, reads and writes English, German, French, Itairan and Spanish, and is the worthly contact the state of the sta is thoroughly courteous and gentlemanly. With Chang is his "secretary," a bust-ling, busy, carnest little Frenchman, named Neaud, who looks upon the giant with admiration and delight.
"What is your exact height, Chang?"

the reporter asked.
"I have never been measured, Monsieur. With our people it is a supersti-tion which takes the form of a religious creed, that no man must be measured until dead. I would rather die than to allow myself to be measured. In fact, if I were measured I would die at once, allow myself to be measured. In fact, if I were measured I would die at once, I fear. I am, however, somewhere in the neighborhood of nine feet. I will stand up and you can stand beside me and judge for yourself."

Chang rose, and, rising, it seemed as though he would never stop. The reporter stands six feet three inches in height. He, at Chang's suggration, put on a high silk hat and waked under the giant's outstretched arm, near the shoulder, without coming in two inches of his sleeve. Then fixing the height of his head about half way between the giant's waist and neck, the reporter checked off three feet at a guess, and found that the crown of the Chinaman's head was surely nine feet from the floor. His hands and feet were comparatively small and very well formed. He has exhibited be fore all the crowned heads of Europe and Australia, and has been the pet of several sovereigns. He wears a solitaire liamond ring, given him by the Emperor of Russia, which is valued at $1,400. Attached to his chria is a gold medal given him by the Berlin exhibition, which asserts that he is the largest man of recent times. He also has half a dozen immeuse diamond rings given him of recent times. He iso has half a dozen immense diamond rings given him by rajahs in India, mayors in Australia, by rajatis in India, mayors in Australia, and potentates from all quarters of the globe. While talking to the reporter, so suddenly dived into his vest pocket, which was large enough to hold an ordinary man's head, and brought forth a ring with the official seal and monogram of Francis Joseph inscribed to "Chang." He also has a watch given him by Queen Victoria which acids two pounds and Victoria, which weighs two pounds and a half, and has a chain nine feet long, which barely reaches around his neck and down to his vest pocket.

An Astonishing Story from Alaska. A letter from Sitka, Alaska, under date of December 23, 1880, written by R. P. Stiurfurth, states that everybody there has been seized with the gold fever. The writer says that about two months previous to the date of his communications are the states of the second series of the se tion a report reached Sitka to the effect that gold had been discovered in Tahon an Indian possession about 150 miles aortheast of Sitka. The people were at first incredulous, because the old mines in the locality named had often been examined and nothing rich enough to pay the possessible and property of the possessible and pay the examined and nothing rich enough to pay the necessarily enormous cost of working had been found. But the flat tering rumors continued to come, and finally a party of small capitalists left litks for Tahon, with the intention of tearning the true prospects there. After being gone twenty-four days they return ed, and, according to the statement of the writer, declared that nothing like the Tahon mines had ever begingen as the first report. Captain Vanuerbilt of the first report. Captain Vanuerbilt of the tug Favorite went to the diggings with eighty miners. Locations were being made with feverish haste and proparations were thing made by everybody to commence work in earnest next urth asserts that these men confirmed

- Ex-Confederate Generals are, many of them, achieving fame and fortune in rosier paths than of old. Major-General Marmaduko is a Missouri Railway Commissioner, and, as a bachelor, lives comfortably in St. Louis on a salary of $5,000 a year. General J. B. Gordon, as counsel for the Louisville and Nashville Road, gets a salary of $14,000. Major General B. F. Cheutham has a handsome farm in Tennessee. General Toomba practices law, and is very rich. General Basil Duke is a lawyer in Louisville, and has a good income; General Bradley Johnston is also getting rich in the same profession in Baltimore. All the sons of Robert E. Lee, except one are moderately successful farmers in Virginia. The exception, Custis Lee, succeeded his father as President of Washington-Lee University. General Jubal Early is living quietly at Lynchburg in comfortable circumstances. General J. C. Pemberton has become a resident of Philadelphia, is an invalid, and has written a book on Vicksburg.

— The raid on Shoddy Petter in the Ohio Legislature has taken in amusing feature. By a bill just introduced it is proposed to make any landlord or boarding house keeper liable to a fine of $10 and ten days' imprisonment who does not inform his guests of the composition of the butter he sets before them. This is rather hard on the hotel and boarding house keepers, and the question is, how house keepers, and the question is, how are they to know what butter is made of?

SINCE the introduction of this Spool Cotton into the American market, its success has been unprecedented. No other brand of thread has ever met with the same amount of public favor in the same space of time.

The "O. N. T." manufacturers were the first to recognize the importance of the Sewing Machine and to make a six-cord cotton, which has ever since been the recognized standard for machines.

All the improvements in machinery that the inventive genius of the nineteenth century has produced have been adapted by the manufacturer of "O. N. T."

At all the great International Fairs of the world, "O. N. T." has been awarded the highest honors.

The "O. N. T." factories at Newark, N. J., and Paisley, Scotland, employ 5,200 operatives — make sufficient thread daily to go around the world four times.

Consume 140 tons of coal daily.

The manufacturers of "O. N. T." are the largest manufacturers of Spool Cotton in the world.

A full assortment of this Spool Cotton can be had at wholesale and retail at J. P. SULLIVAN & CO., Anderson, S. C., and M. I. BROCK'S, Honea Path, S. C. Oct 7, 1880
